As far as pharms gos, they arnt that plentiful. They were sending me zopiclona which is costa rican lunesta and it was very weird didnt actually help sleep all that much but seemed like the only thing they can get that would help but now apparently they need a script to get that too. Be smart about it. I'm currently in Flamingo Beach, but I'm going to Heredia in about a week. I told him I got robbed of my meds. While costa rican drug laws are alot more lax than the states Can you or anyone say more about CR-drug laws? My tolerance to hypnotics like ambien goes up a lot faster than benzos, antihistamines don't put me to sleep. I asked him for amphetamine and he said that the local pharmacy didn't carry it and you'd need a psychiatrist the prescribe it. One problem ive had though is finding a good sleep med for them to send me because im a sever insomniac.
