I actually read the rules too. I've been all over the internet and cannot find anyone talking about this issue, which I find odd. OxyContin has stronger effects because it contains a pure concentration of oxycodone and the formulation makes the drug intensely strong and highly addictive. This destroys the time-release mechanism so that the user gets the full effects of the narcotic. Any helpful criticism would be greatly appreciated. Generics and brand are NOT the same. Our bodies respond differently for example to a people with sugar as a inactive ingredient compared to a pill that has fiber instead of suger, yet they were the same drug in main ingredient only an example the subject sucks though because everyone is different and it is very stressful trying to pinpoint the right manufacturer at times. This is a medication where you would immediately know if the effects are the same or not, as it holds such a drastic route of action. No need to apologize. Users compare the high to the euphoria of heroin. This is a brand named pharmaceutical designed to be time-released and remains effective for about 12 hours. It is more of nuisance type thing and no HR related issues that make it not allowed. Manufactures use different fillers in different generics. Wiki Research Mission Statement Donate! The Teva generics would have me zipping fast for a few hours very focused and productive but would not last long. But if they failed to inform you a change was made and you ask politely, they may make an exception. But with the introduction of OxyContin in , there has been a marked escalation of abuse. It makes you feel you can tolerate more, but it can precipitate respiratory failure, especially when used with other drugs like alcohol. Doc thinks it's either a slight mg difference between manufacturers they are allowed a slight variation or a b.Nov 30, - Read on for an in-depth comparison of these two medications, including how well they work, how much they cost, and what side effects they may cause.
