I'd done well on Zoloft in the past and had seemed to do all right when I was switched to a generic, but I'd only taken it for a few months before I went off the medication entirely. And I did some research. Although both pills started out with equal amounts of active ingredient bupropion, according to the ConsumerLab report, the large upfront dose from the generic could account for the anxiety, irritability and nausea -- all known side effects of too high a dose of bupropion. When you realize those symptoms began when you switched from your brand-name antidepressant to its generic version. Products meeting necessary bioequivalence requirements.
