Every subsequent day of the conference will be started with a plenary keynote lecture on a major topic of the conference. The main objective of the conference is to unite the various scientific communities not only involved in nuclear instrumentation and measurements, but also in nuclear medicine and radiation. Four parallel sessions with oral presentations will be scheduled, after which there will be a short discussion. Registrations will open on the 5th of January, , while the deadline for abstract submission is on the 17th of November. The conference is all about getting scientists, engineers, students and the industry to meet, exchange cultures and identify new scientific and technical prospects to help overcome both current and future unresolved issues. Fundamental physics Fusion diagnostics and technology Advanced nuclear energy systems Research reactors Nuclear fuel cycle Decommissioning, dismantling and remote handling Safeguards, homeland security Sever accidents monitoring Environmental and medical science Education, training and outreach Programme During the opening session, two world class scientists will present a review of research domains closely related to nuclear instrumentation.
