NPHD was asked to conduct an executive coaching program for eight agency program directors, to support the changes taking place in the agency. Decision The Court found the extensive contact TAPS had with Mr Reynolds after his accident as well as their efforts to improve their safety procedures was important in determining an appropriate penalty. A new nonprofit structure was created with adequate fiscal controls, reporting and filings. However, TAPS relied upon those on site to comply with health and safety obligations. Each director received a leadership assessment battery, and then completed a Strategic Development Plan based on the results of the battery. NPHD helped the new executive director revamp his management and board and put a board development plan in place. Per saperne di piu' Approvo.
