Your child can drink clear fluids. Mercaptopurine tablets or liquid should be kept in a cool, dry place away from direct sunlight or heat. Do not use them for any other purpose. Do not flush it down the toilet or throw it away. A tablet cutter may be used for this but you should keep it only for cutting chemotherapy tablets. This means your child may become anaemic, bruise or bleed more easily than usual, and have a higher risk of infection. The easiest way to lookup drug information, identify pills, check interactions and set up your own personal medication records. For example, some manufacturers may recommend, in the patient information leaflet, that a medicine is not given to children aged under 12 years. If this is unsuitable, you can make tablets into a mixture as follows: If your child is taking mercaptopurine liquid, it can only be used for eight weeks once opened. What are the side effects of mercaptopurine? If the mixture accidentally gets into your eyes, wash with plenty of running water for at least 10 minutes. This should return to normal when the treatment is finished. It should not be construed to indicate that the use of any medication in any country is safe, appropriate or effective for you.
