Leave a Reply Cancel reply Enter your comment here Because of several serious health issues I am unable to function enough to work and have been receiving Medicaid assistance from the state for health care services and prescriptions I take 21 different prescription medications daily. You are commenting using your WordPress. The lady at Medbank sent me one of those drug discount card for people without insurance and I found several other discount drug programs online they all work the same way they have a claim number on them and the pharmacist puts in that claim number and it puts the medication at the price listed by their discount plan. Well I went to Wal-Mart and 4 other non big box pharmacies and the most shocking thing I found out I asked them to also check the prices using 4 different prescription drug discount cards and guess what using those drug discount cards actually gets you charged more than the pharmacy normally charges! I thought it was the drug companies ripping us off on drug prices I was wrong . Look at the price differences if we can assume the lowest price is more than the pharmacies actual cost then difference in the lowest and highest represents a huge profit for those pharmacies a bit usurious for a 5 minute transaction.
